Education Goal

Our continuous goal is to foster the students' abilities such as:

- More specialized ability and applied skills in addition to basic academic ability
- The communication skills with which the students can communicate their thoughts and accept each other's way of thinking
- The mind in which the students feel a part of the society by spontaneously getting themselves involved and contributing themselves to the society.
- The challenging spirit in which the students consider themselves about what they are, decide their own career paths and continue trying in various situations

Education Policy

We encourage our students to learn an international view point, welfare in mind and communication skills.

The figures below illustrate what we encourage the students to learn at our school.

1 International view point

To understand the different way of thinking of people from different countries, and find out what you can do

2 Welfare in Mind

To be always ready to care for others, offer your hands to people in need, and do something together

3 Communication skill

To have important skill to realize the desire to form a good relationship with others

<One example of the classes>

Subject: Expressing in English

The students prepare their presentation documents and practice making a presentation. Each of them is given some minutes in the last few classes for giving a presentation. And a few excellent speakers are chosen to have another opportunity to give the presentation at Exhibition of the Learning Outcome Day held in every March.

Welfare Department

- The practical training using functional equipment such as beds, baths, wheelchairs and so on.
- The lessons where the student can think for themselves, find their own way, and then act.
- The practical trainings and voluntary work at nearby nurseries, and elderly nursing and caring homes.

<One example of the class>

Subject: Support for the people who need help

Students learn and practice how to make beds, how to help each other to eat easy-to-swallow food, how to make each other get dressed and take off clothes, how to bathe each other and other practical matters. They learn more when they are on training for four days by experiencing every day jobs at nearby elderly nursing and caring facilities. They even have chances to plan and do fun activities for elderly people there. As a result, they come to learn what caring others means through the whole class.

Sister School Programs

Meiko Senior High School has two sister schools.

One is Taejang High School, Suwon, South Korea. Students are exchanged every other year in turns. The other is Catonsville High School, Maryland, USA, where Meiko students visit every three years. They can learn both cultures and make good relationship by interacting with the students, the staff and their families of each school through the sister school programs.

The club members always try to learn what Red Cross's activities are, and also try to promote them to the school and to the society. They usually practice the lifesaving method such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation for an emergency, and get involved in community service such as picking up litter in the public area and visit the same facilities for the handicapped.

International Club is leading the school's international activities.

The students enjoy themselves by communicating with an American instructor living in US Fleet Activities Yokosuka. They learn not only English conversation but also western culture through the activities. For example, they visit US Fleet Activities Yokosuka a few times a year. They spend their time attending classes at Kinnick High School in the base and even playing sports with the students from Kinnick High School. They also have a good time at the parties held on Halloween and Christmas in the base.
